

Immunization Efforts Earn Aventis Recognition

Aventis Pasteur, a world leader in the development and manufacturing of vaccines, recognized KDHE staff in the Bureau of Children, Youth and Families for their continued efforts to protect and improve the quality of Kansans' lives through immunization.

On Oct. 18, Aventis sponsored a statewide teleconference with KDHE to update school and public health nurses on developments in vaccine strategies for several illnesses. Approximately 60 nurses participated in the teleconference and panel discussion.

The plaque inscription reads:

KDHE Children & Families

Aventis Pasteur is honored to recognize your efforts in protecting human life through immunization. We thank you for your dedication to this noble endeavor:
